ALMA HIGH SCHOOL

The regular meeting of the Athena society was held in the high school November 17. It was decided that the society would join with the Lambda Sigma society in giving a banquet for the House of Representatives and the football team. The program of the evening dealt with the life and characteristics of the Indians. Miss Lyons gave an interesting report on Indian characteristics. The roll call was answered by quotations from "Hiawatha." Miss Archer gave a report on an Indian legend supposed to have taken place near Saginaw. The Indian legends were calling on the Indian maidens with the exception of the one with which the story deals. She noticed this and thought that it was because she had so many wrinkles in her face. So she tied strings to her ears and under her hair. One night a handsome brave came to her campfire and he thought that she was so beautiful that he kept coming. One night the strings broke and the brave disappeared, never to return.

We have now come to the time when this proverb should be thoughtfully considered, judging from the lack of material collected by the school reports for the column in The Alma Record.

Monday there is a grand rush and by class time the "deskmen" have about four hastily and poorly written reports instead of sixteen. The serious condition of no work with no result is brought before the class. In answer to the question, "Why?" "Haven't had time," comes from those who forget that every week has only seven days. We forget that we are here to work and accomplish results.

This applies not only to one class but to all classes. Did you ever notice the flock of people who gather in the library, all after the same book on Monday morning? Ask the students of history or English how many of them have their note books ready to hand in this week. You will find a small minority—why? They didn't have time and kept putting it off expecting some day to have time. The leaders in the Junior Red Cross drive, which was launched Monday will tell you that most of the students put off bringing their quarter until after-noon. Students let's reason this thing out for ourselves. Let's try doing things on time for one week and see the results.

A Junior Red Cross campaign was begun Monday. The presidents of the four classes appointed members in each class to get the subscriptions for memberships. Every class is trying to see which one will have one hundred percent membership first.

The Lambda Sigma met at the high school Monday evening. The program was as follows: Lucile Raum gave a reading entitled "Yonic" and Frances Dickinson told a story of "Eli-due." Ida Archer gave a report on "The Romance of the Rose."

It was decided that with the help of the Athena Society they would entertain the House of Representatives and the Football squad Friday evening in the gymnasium.

The chemistry Laboratory will soon open operations, as the chemicals and apparatus have arrived.

The F. A. E. Literary society is going to give a Thanksgiving contest Friday, November 21. They are now having a poem contest.

The House of Representatives held their regular meeting in the high school Thursday at 7:30. A continued discussion on the League of Nations. They passed two resolutions. The Republicans asked for one reservation pertaining to Shantung; that it should be given to China instead of Japan. This was passed in the house. The democratic failed to get enough votes. They will continue with it in the next meeting.

Only a Cold

Are you ill? Is often answered— "Oh! it's only a cold." as if a cold was a matter of little consequence, but people are beginning to learn that a common cold is a matter not to be trifled with, that some of the most serious diseases start with a cold. As soon as the first indication of a cold appears take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Remember that the sooner you get rid of your cold the less the danger, and this remedy will help you to throw it off.
